UTC RETAIL Introduces 3190 POS Touchscreen Workstation

UTC kicks off 2016 by debuting its newest all-in-one platform with the latest Intel® technology

Rochester, NY, January 5, 2016: UTC RETAIL, a full-service provider of store solutions to the specialty retail marketplace, including software, hardware and professional services, today announced the introduction of its 3190 POS hardware workstation. The 3190 is UTC RETAIL's latest offering within the 3100 family of all-in-one touch terminals.

"We have a very long standing reputation within the industry of providing proven, retail hardened solutions," said Pat Barr, Director of Product Management, Hardware Solutions for UTC RETAIL. "So, we constantly strive to uphold this legacy through the design and manufacture of POS hardware that is solid, cost effective and takes advantage of the latest technology. We are exceptionally proud of the advancements we've incorporated into the 3190's design, including the newest Intel® technology platform, Skylake."

Skylake is the codename used by Intel® for their sixth generation Core™ processor microarchitecture, which was recently announced by Intel® on September 1, 2015. Intel® has stated that Skylake is its "most significant processor for a decade", due to the enhanced power efficiency, increased performance and wire-free capabilities.

The 3190 offers a range of processor options, including Pentium® (Dual-Core), i3, i5 or i7. The unit also offers the option of either a Resistive touchscreen or Projected Capacitive (PCAP), which allows for full multi-touch application support (e.g., swipe, pinch to zoom, etc.). Other optional features include wireless capabilities, dual hard drives, solid state drives and RAID. The 3190 also comes standard with a 3 year warranty. With all these available options, the new 3190 platform allows each retailer to build a solution that is the best fit for their business, incorporates all the benefits available from the very latest in technology and provides a better ROI.
